

Perched on bluffs high above the Bay Harbor community is Crooked Tree Golf Club. The course was sculpted from centuries-old hardwoods with the back nine opening to breathtaking views of Little Traverse Bay and Lake Michigan.

The course is famous for its undulating greens which are well protected and feature giant slopes and multiple tiers. The par-3 second hole has three levels to its putting surface, making for a great challenge that requires equal parts creativity and humility.

The back nine, which measures almost 400 yards longer than the front, starts out with one of BOYNE's most difficult par-4's; the 472 yard tenth hole. Two good shots are required to have a chance at par, especially with a hard sloping green to finish.

While there are tee shots that appear to be blind, the entire course has generous fairways and is as playable as it is exciting.
